Mud, sweat and fears: New sabs speak out

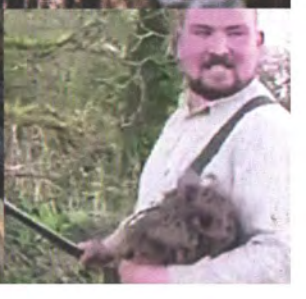

Group News Round up

LETTER FROM THE CHAIR:

The Hunt Saboteurs Association is a unique organisation in many ways, a direct action organisation which has not lost sight of its raison d'etre in the over fifty years of its existence (and isn't going to start now), an organisation run by those taking no money who not only support but actively participate in its activities and, most importantly, its grass roots group structure.

Our local groups are our greatest strength, self-organising and autonomous from the main organisation but the heart and soul of its activities. It is they who decide on a weekly basis which hunts are to be sabbed and what other activities in which they will involve themselves. We do not, and would not want to, tell them what to do; they know their stuff and although the committee is full of experienced sabs, it is that experience which directs us to let the local group get on with it as they see fit. They, after all, have the local knowledge gleaned from years of sabbing. Our job at the national organisation is to support those decisions on a financial basis but also with Intel and communications. Many of our campaigns are initiated by local sab groups and we just go along for the ride, assisting them as we can. The hardest part is helping the set-up of new groups, particularly when no experienced sabs are part of that group, so when you do hear of a new sab group please support them in any way you can, even if that is only sharing their FaceBook posts.

As this is being written, we are preparing for our AGM, and although the figures are not complete in the past two years we have given over £50,000 to local sab groups and, in addition, supplied them with equipment such as gizmos and night vision devices etc. vital in the protection of our wildlife (be that the hunted fox, hare or mink) or from the shooters trying to kill our badgers and bird life.

In the fuss around the Hunting Act it is sometimes forgotten that we were sabbing hunts while they were involved in a legal activity and the vagaries of the law do not interest us. If an animal is going to be killed in our countryside that is when hunt saboteurs step in to be the thin line between the hunter and the hunted; legal activity or otherwise. No-one else does this and, dare we say, no-one else could do this better.

Thank you for supporting us and being a voice for our wildlife.

The Hunt Saboteurs Association has been in existence for over 50 years, and is dedicated to saving the lives of hunted animals directly. Prior to the Hunting Act of 2004, hunt saboteurs used non-violent direct action (nvda) to prevent the horrific deaths of thousands of hunted animals every year. Post hunt ban the primary tool of hunt sabotage has switched from the hunting horn to the video camera, as saboteurs monitor hunts with the aim of capturing their illegal activities on film. This in turn can immediately save lives on the day, and can lead to police action against the hunt concerned. Our range of pre-ban nvda tactics remain in active service, and saboteurs will continue to use them should they be deemed the best way forward on the day for the hunted animal at risk.

The HSA committee is made up of a maximum of 12 voting members, supported by as many non-voting members as is deemed necessary. As a member of the HSA your contribution is vital – thank you.

EDITORIAL

So we get to the end of another season (although it may not feel that way for those of us tracking down those pesky mink hunts or preparing to venture once more into badger cull zones) and realise that not much appears to have changed; hunts are still hunting, sabs are still sabbing, our supporters are still fundraising. The changes are subtle. They are important. And they are indisputable.

Read the group news: hunts being prosecuted; police forces being made to face up to their responsibilities; frequent and continuous changes in hunt personnel as hunt staff get called to account for their actions or leave because they are not used to getting their own way; hunts closing, amalgamating or simply turning tail and running for home when they are being watched.

The general public are overwhelmingly with us. They do not believe that foxes eat toddlers, steal bicycles or need to be chased to exhaustion. They watch foxes in their gardens. They leave out food. They compare notes about the best filling for a foxy sandwich.*

I recently heard a conversation in a supermarket (jam and preserves aisle) between an elderly lady and a younger woman with two children. Neither had companion animals but clearly gained great pleasure from looking out for 'their' foxes. The older woman favoured peanut butter for her night-time visitor whilst the children explained that they put strawberry jam sandwiches out sometimes and were allowed to sit up to watch for Foxy, if it wasn't a school night. The young man stacking shelves listened, laughed to himself and then shared with them the time that his mum put out a jacket potato for their 'Lady-fox' which was found abandoned the next day with a fox poo on top.

And this is why we will win. Because very ordinary members of the public from all walks of life simply do not like the persecution of 'their' wildlife. They may live in towns, villages or the countryside; they may not 'understand the countryside' and they may not interact with any other animal, but they know what is right and fair. They know when something is wrong. They understand abuse and they will support the under-dog. That is our tradition. Not red coats and doffing a cap.

And, whilst you are reading the group news, read the article by the new sab. Because this is the crux of the matter. Everyone who supports, in whatever way, is a hunt saboteur. If you raise money for us, you are keeping groups in the field and vehicles moving – thus saving lives. If you give us information, you are ensuring that the hunts find it harder to avoid us - stopping the hunts from killing. If you support our events, come and meet us, buy merchandise and pass on our message you are broadening the net that will eventually close over those who think it is ok to persecute our wildlife.

Thank you, we could not do this without you.

MUD, SWEAT AND FEARS

NEW SABS ACCOUNTS OF THEIR FIRST SEASONS

Having made contact with my local sab group via Facebook I became involved with the badger cull last summer, surveying the Dorset cull zone with people who could read the woods like beautiful books.

Suddenly, before my eyes, in the company of experienced sabs, who talked me through what they were looking for and what they could see, the velvet green of the wood floor opened up with tales of badger runs, exciting latrines and most magical of all, live setts. Knowing the badgers were there beneath our feet, sleeping and snuffling together, filled me with wonder – and horror. They were to be culled. With little to offer apart from enabling another experienced surveyor to work another part of the wood and cover more ground, I knew I had to do what I could to help the badgers, and the people protecting them.

This, of course, led me to my first season of hunt sabbing. I knew this would be very different from wandering the shady woods looking for subtle signs of gentle life. I knew this would be confrontational, possibly physical, and as someone who always kept well away from fights in the school playground, I was scared. The first meet of the season was a big turnout for the hunt on our first day out. There were lots of horse boxes, lots of riders. I don't know any self-defence and I'm scared of horses. Oh, and I was unfit. Great start!

Luckily for me, my first season of sabbing has been relatively conflict-free.

"..the weekends rolled by and I found myself in the landy with a bunch of hilarious, strong and determined people (mostly women) feeling more and more like I belonged among them."

The first hunt ended without a kill – mercifully, I have not seen a kill to date - and the massive high of that brought me home muddy, elated and absolutely hooked. I'd managed what running there was to do - just. I'd met a whole bunch of determined and brave folk who were ready to take one for our animal friends if needs be, and I just knew that this was what I had to do too. I'd felt supported by my group, and was encouraged to listen in closely and take on board as much as I could. I was totally impressed by their skills and how they kept the hunt within sight for much of the day. I asked questions – maybe not always the right ones! – and my learning curve had begun.

As someone with a demanding job, I thought that the odd day out would be all that I could manage. Yet the weekends rolled by and I found myself in the landy with a bunch of hilarious, strong and determined people (mostly women) feeling more and more like I belonged among them. They helped me know what to wear, what to take to eat, and talked me through much of what was going on in the field. I soon found myself on Friday nights at home, looking out into the dark, thinking that out there, somewhere, was a fox (or a vixen of course) or a hare that was going to have to run for its life the next day. Having seen the difference that numbers make in the field, somehow I couldn't justify not going out and maybe, maybe making a difference to the chances of an innocent animal. Saturdays just became sabbing days. Simple.

So; mud, sweat and fears? Yes – lots of each. Sabbing is a muddy business. It's a cold business a lot of the time too. I think everyone has 'layer anxiety:' will I be too hot? will I be too cold? But my kit came together and I can pretty much judge what to wear and when to eat now. Sweat – yes lots of that too. I wasn't fit and there were times when the running was hard, especially up-hill in muddy fields. Yet somehow, although always last to get there, I never fell too far behind. Fear? Yes, I have been afraid: afraid of the scum who drive their horses into us; afraid of the hunt support that once tried very hard to run us over; afraid of the terrier men who drive up to us on their quads and the men who wave crow bars at us or smash in the window of our vehicle, which happened at the end of the season.

Of course there is fear – these people take innocent lives after all. But my fear is not greater than that of the fox who is running for his life. My fear takes place among people who are on my side. The fox is alone, and so I keep going out.

I have seen a fox get away with his life with just a few seconds to get ahead of the hounds. I have seen the saving grace of the time bought by sabs blowing the horn, or by lines of citronella sprayers. I have held my breath and forced my hands to stay still when a fox breaks from a wood and runs, silently for his life with the hounds in cry behind him. And although I know almost nothing and can only follow the group, I am also boots on the ground. I am also eyes, watching out for him. Watching out for her.

I have joined the gym! I am determined to be fitter next season. As a life-long veggie I am now well on my way into full veganism and feel fitter, healthier and slimmer for all of it. I've learned loads – laughed loads – and have made some mistakes too. I'm grateful to the sabs who have helped me understand what is going on, and who have given me clear and direct instructions. I have a long way to go. But I am going to keep learning and I'm going to keep getting out there for Charlie fox and our other friends. If they have to run, then so do I. We're all in it together.

MORE THOUGHTS FROM NEW SABS

It really was a case of hitting the ground running for us. This wasn't just my first season of co-running a group, but my first season of sabbing at all.

Noticing that there was no longer a Peterborough sab group, I decided to set one up myself – I was soon put in touch with my partner-in-sabbing and, with a couple of seasons under their belt, they actually ended up doing most of the day-to-day tasks!

I have often thought about getting involved in direct action over the years, but for some reason always felt too nervous to go through with it. I don't know why; the sense of achievement at the end of a "no kills" day and the feeling of comradery among sabs really outweighs any negatives. I was also outraged that, since the hunting ban, the public really do believe that hunts no longer kill foxes. This is the negative effect of a weak act that's full of loopholes.

On a practical level, more experienced sabs always offer support and advice (we are all learning all the time), and sabs really do have each other's backs all of the time. I was also reassured at how tactically prepared and knowledgeable sabs are before going into the field.

I was surprised at the amount of information gathering, publicity and fundraising involved – and these are areas where those not able or comfortable with the actual sabbing can prove invaluable. Such help frees up sabs' time to concentrate on actually sabbing the hunts.

My feelings after my first season really are positive. And, I was shocked at how easy, to get involved it really is – you just have to be willing and honest about what role you wish to play – whether it's out sabbing or a behind the scenes role that you favour.

I have also been shocked at how biased the police really are and at the arrogance of the hunt, but, on the whole, the sabbing experience is as I expected; a physically demanding, but rewarding experience, and there is a lot of support for us from the public on the whole.

Speaking as new sabs, my partner and I have both experienced the unfortunate dark side of what hunt saboteurs face. I was one of four sabs that two terrier men on a quad tried their best to run down in an unprovoked and almost disastrous attack. My partner was physically assaulted by a hunt supporter. Little can be said about this as he has been charged by the police for a number of offences and court proceedings are currently underway.

The appalling immoral depths at which the hunters operate, under protection and assistance from the establishment, is beyond our comprehension, but in our fellow sabs we have found a body of caring, determined and deeply committed people who are not deterred by the dark days. The predictably brutal attitude of hunters only serves to make us more solid. My partner and I are proud to be Sheffield Hunt Sabs and will give what we can of ourselves to help the ongoing cause.

Although we have helped other groups hit other hunts and had other groups help us (thanks), during this season we made the decision to focus on a single hunt; The Oakley. We felt, as a group, that we could be most effective operating this way and certainly make things very difficult for them, and this we achieved with bells on.

The Oakley openly hunt illegally but our focus of attention meant we knew when and where they would be; we had good intelligence on them and more often than not were waiting for them on their first draw. We even forced them to abandon their use of the so called 'hunt stewards' after one of our members was violently assaulted by them.

We regularly intervened and saved many lives through a combination of great communication, teamwork and classic sabbing techniques in spite of the best efforts of Bedfordshire Police who, by and large, have acted very poorly. Speaking of teams, we're lucky have some great new sabs on board who have shown their metal time and again over the season and, at the time of going to press, we will have had meetings with the police, who will have had to answer for their actions.

The Oakley, however, have suffered. Their meets get changed, their turnouts are dwindling and our intelligence informs us of lots of in-fighting as well as landowners threatening to withdraw hunting country. All great news to our ears. We also understand that if they are to continue next season there will be new hunt staff – watch this space!

As a group, we're getting stronger and ready to face any challenges head-on, regardless of their origin. We'll be busy over the summer fund raising and will, no doubt, be actively involved once again in saving our badgers from the Government sponsored persecution.

In the second half of this season we have continued our focus on beagling across the South, with hits against the Sandhurst and Alderhshot, Trinity Foot, Old Berkeley and the Four Shires Bassets. We have also teamed up with North Downs sabs to visit the Surrey Union a few times.

We have paid special attention to the Old Berkeley Beagles, visiting them regularly; each time ending with them doing a long walk of shame. They moved kennels halfway through the season, along with their kennel-mates the Four Shires Bassets which they probably thought was a clever way of getting rid of us. Bet they weren't expecting us to be parked outside the weekend after they moved, taking pictures of them!

With the end of the season looming and hunts getting ready for their annual hunt balls, we decided to ruin as much of their fun as possible. First we sabbed the Sandhurst and Aldershot at Herriad Park on the day of their ball, then the week after we sabbed an Old Berkeley joint meet with the Chilmark and Clifton Foot Beagles on the day of theirs. Hopefully that pissed in their gin a bit.

This summer we will be preparing for the badger cull and strengthening our crew ready for next season. Big thanks to our friends at Beds and Bucks and North Downs hunt sabs for working with us through the season and our friends at Berkshire Antifascists for our continued friendship.

A small, new group, we have had invaluable support from Northants, South Cambridge and Beds and Bucks sabs groups – we've also worked with N.E.L.S, Derby, Nottingham and SES sabs on a number of occasions.

My first experience in the field came at a Pytchley cubbing meet – so I really was thrown in at the deep end, as they are a violent bunch, even by hunting standards. Ironically, the season ended at the Woodland Pytchley – who are even worse!

We only hit Peterborough's notorious Fitzwilliam hunt once – on New Year's Day. There we witnessed our only kill of the season – but we have it on good authority, it is something that happens quite regularly at Britain's oldest hunt and it's something we intend to stop next season.

The Cottesmore saw more of us – and they're another thuggish bunch – must be something in the port here!

Hitting the huge Bicester with Whaddon Chase Hunt with eight sabs from ourselves, Beds and Bucks and Northants was a particular highlight. They were very surprised to see us – and quite outraged too. There we saw some utterly awful displays of hound control – and they certainly left a couple behind on the day we hit them. This lack of control of the pack seemed to be an ongoing theme throughout the season... a farmer threatening to set his cows on foot sabs was a bizarre memory too!

Towards the end of the season, we joined Beds and Bucks to hit the Oakley on a few occasions. A rapidly shrinking hunt, we were still faced with 13 police vehicles and one helicopter to meet around 15 sabs one Saturday. As with other groups, we've been disappointed by the police's lack of interesting in dealing with illegal hunting, dangerous driving by hunt supporters, assaults by hunt thugs and the hunts themselves blocking roads.

All in all, it's been a successful first season and we'd like to thank the other groups who have given us so much support in our first season.

South Cambridgeshire Hunt Saboteurs

schuntsabs@riseup.net

It's been a successful first season for South Cambridgeshire Hunt Sabs. We set up as an independent group for the first time, with a core group of experienced saboteurs and zero funding or equipment. Dedicated members pitched in what they could afford to purchase a sab vehicle early on in the season.

This has been a busy season with a core group out every weekend. We have hit the Cambridge Hunt with Enfield Chace as well as the Oakley, Woodland Pytchley, Suffolk & Essex, Cottesmore, Puckeridge, Essex, Fernie and Fitzwilliam Hunts. Although we are proud to continue to work with other local groups around the Essex, London, Northants and Beds areas, this season also saw us working well independently as a group. This allowed us to begin targeting local hunts, which have not been sabbed regularly for some years.

This season, unfortunately, also saw us experience a lot of prejudice from the police, as well as dealing with the usual aggression from hunt staff. We also witnessed the death of two foxes, which has further fuelled our passion to prevent the illegal killing of our wildlife. We still end the season with a sense of achievement, having saved the lives of many more foxes, deer and hares.

Over the summer we will focus our efforts on fundraising and acquiring a more reliable vehicle, as well as preparing for the Badger Cull. We still need more funding and more sabs out in the field; please get in touch if you can help.

We have been out monitoring the hunts in Gloucestershire around Cirencester and Cotswolds. This includes the Beaufort, VWH and Cotswold Hunts. Three Counties Hunt Sabs have supported us on several occasions. Sharing knowledge of hunt activity and wildlife crime has been invaluable and we are building up patterns of hunt behaviour and vital locations of badgers setts and artificial earths on hunt territory. The number of wildlife crime incidents that we pass on to the police and relevant agencies is increasing – no doubt other groups are finding the same.

We are very grateful for the support of 'Outpaced' a group who support those who protect wildlife from harm with legal and practical advice: Using expert and specialist knowledge, outpaced works to expose the criminal acts that are visited on these people, who so often go unpunished. We will work with police forces and public bodies to ensure proper process is pursued and that wildlife crime is investigated and prosecuted - and we will challenge them and hold them to account when they fail to act.

This year Outpaced have advised us on public order offences including common assaults, racial incidents, theft and criminal damage.

We are also working alongside Three Counties Wildlife Crime Watch who are a group who have come together from various organisations already working within the three counties in order to share skills and knowledge so that they can tackle wildlife crime more effectively.sations already working within the three counties in order to share skills and knowledge so that we can tackle wildlife crime more effectively. Earlier in the year we had a very informative group meeting with an experienced sab who passed on his knowledge of skills and tactics out in the field.

Currently we are monitoring badger setts for the imminent culls in our hunt areas and then preparing for cub hunting later on in the year.

Keep safe.

The group had a fairly quiet start to the year. The Old Surrey, Burstow and West Kent Foxhounds had kennel cough and other hunts were proving elusive, so January sabbing was limited to one visit to the Crawley and Horsham and a very successful outing on a shoot.

February saw four visits to the Crawley and Horsham. Sadly, at least one of those involved a kill. There was also some very aggressive behaviour from some of their terrier men and some extremely irritating policing.

The last couple of weeks of the season had us back on the Burstow. Huntsman Mark Bycroft was in chatty, friendly mode (as opposed to punching sabs in the face mode), although some of the other red coats got really stressed when sabs took control of the pack. The last week of the season saw some extreme violence from a hunt supporter, the full story of which will appear later, and the tragic death of a fox in the arms of one of the Hook sabs.

With the fox hunt season over in the South East, our attentions turned to the Kent and Sussex mink hounds. They were found at their opening meet and, as usual, ran away. Two weeks later they were caught trying to leave kennels and again turned tail. Since then they seem to have been in hiding.

As usual, we have had the pleasure of sabbing alongside West Sussex, South Downs, South Coast and Southampton sabs.

We are looking forward to keeping the pressure on the Mink hunt throughout the summer.

This has been the season of our new Landy; and a fine Landy it is! We continued to spread our efforts around Devon to keep the hunts on their toes and sabbed 17 different hunts, many of them several times.

Early January saw two visits to the beleaguered Mid Devon with South Devon Animal Rights, who sab them every week and have reduced them to a sorry state. We also joined Somerset Hunt Saboteur Group to visit the Minehead Harriers on a couple of occasions, which contributed to their temporary ban from National Trust land for breaching their licence.

The Eggesford and the Cotley both received multiple visits. On 20th February we sadly witnessed the Cotley's hounds tearing a fox apart. With the Eggesford on 26th March, sabs realised a dig-out was in progress and managed to get into the woods and stop it, finding a badger sett with freshly blocked holes. Police attended and were refreshingly helpful, while hunt stewards aka anti antis tied themselves up in all sorts of knots trying to explain the actions of the terrier men, who had fled the scene. While sabs unblocked what the anti antis insisted was a rabbit warren, one of them said "I wouldn't put my arm down a badger sett!" To which the attending officer replied, "I thought you said it wasn't an active sett?"!

Next, we joined Dorset sabs with the Portman near Blandford Forum and paid the Stevenstone a visit for their closing meet. For our final outing we were joined by friends from Kernow and Somerset to sab the closing meet of the Spooner's & West Dartmoor at Postbridge, which turned out to be a long day rushing across Dartmoor in blizzard conditions, but hounds were stopped on many occasions and several foxes got away.

We ended the season with a well-attended skill share event, including tactical discussions based on old editions of Howl from years gone by, and a really useful self-defence workshop.

Some great new sabs have joined our ranks lately and while the prospect of yet more badger cull zones in the South West this year is a daunting one, we are in a good position to save lives.

Thanks as always to our supporters!

The last half of the season saw the various hunts step up violence against sabs as they were outdone by our effectiveness. Many a day went by with a particular hunt hemmed in by foot sabs, sabs in vehicles and monitors, often restricted to a small area and not getting on to any foxes. Quite often we were out twice a week, up to four times and the hunts' patience wore thin.

The Blackmore & Sparkford Vale hunt was regularly sabbed and on occasions extra thugs brought in. This is never enough to stop sabs from doing their job and on one occasion where the hunt were at Charlton Horethorne, home to the kennels, hunt support were out for trouble from the off. Steering clear as much as we could and concentrating on saving foxes, at 4.00 pm sabs were in the right place to use the gizmo and distract the hounds. This incensed the hunt support who threw a few punches at sabs; again, this did not make us leave. We hung around till the hunt had returned to the kennels without a kill.

What has been clear this season has been the amount of info received from people out in the countryside enabling us to find the hunts. People are also standing up to hunts trespassing and complaining publicly. This has also added to pressure on the Dorset hunts, on many occasions huntsmen were being careful not to hunt foxes with sabs about.

As the season was finishing it was clear hunts were reigning in their thugs, who had spoken to them? Only on one occasion when we were sabbing are we sure a hunt killed, that being the Cattistock at Little Bredy when foot sabs missed a dig out by minutes but caught the hunt's poor attempts to hide the kill.

Thanks to the various sab groups that joined with us here in Dorset and to the groups we joined up with during the season. And thanks to all our supporters for their support and help with funding too.
Lastly, thanks to our monitors who we worked very closely with this season and to all those sabs new to this and not so new.

Now the season is over we're concentrating on sett surveying to help protect badgers that will be targeted in year two of the cull here in Dorset.

Please contact us if you wish to help the Dorset wildlife.

This hunting season Liverpool sabs have been visiting hunts close to home such as the Holcombe Harriers and Flint & Denbigh. We have also joined Manchester and Nottingham sabs on a number of occasions and visited the Meynell and South Staffordshire Hunt; after they killed a fox in February we stepped up the pressure on them, ensuring sabs were present at their meets at least once a week until the end of the season.

We have been teaming up with North Wales and Lancaster Sabs when visiting the Flint & Denbigh hunt. As we have seen, this hunt can be very violent. On one occasion we had multiple car tyres slashed by hunt supporters and on another day a vicious attack by a landowner on one of our sabs. Multiple cameras recorded the incident and due to the ongoing police investigation we cannot say any more at this moment. We will be sure to update all of our supporters once the case has concluded.

The Holcombe Harriers have been their usual selves this season. Pretending to lay trails and infamously having absolutely no control over their hounds whatsoever. Their final meet of the season was the most interesting day we had with them. Hounds chased numerous hares throughout the day with sabs ensuring each and every one made a safe getaway. The day ended with sabs taking control of the hounds and having to keep them for over an hour until the hunt finally arrived to collect them.

We are planning a number of fundraising stalls and gigs over the summer so keep your eyes peeled. We are also very happy to announce that we have just released our new t-shirts. Head to our website where you can check them out.

2016 started badly for us at the Fitzwilliam Hunt on New Year's Day when they brutally killed a fox in front of sabs; this is now an ongoing police investigation. We spent the next few months annoying the Fernie, Belvoir, Quorn and the Cottesmore, amongst others.

A visit to the Cottesmore towards the end of the season, when their tempers were fraying, resulted in our windscreen being smashed and wing mirror torn off by masked up hunt supporters.

We had to end the season with a visit to the Woodland Pytchley and it was no surprise to be up against the usual biased and downright illegal and dangerous actions of Northamptonshire Police using their tactic of weaving vehicles across the road at 5 mph to slow us down and allow the hunters to get away. A sab was assaulted by a thug on a quad and Police present refused to call an ambulance. Thanks to all the other groups that came out that day to support us.

We've been working closely with Leicester Animal Rights who started the campaign that resulted in PC Sharon Roscoe standing down from her post as Leicestershire Rural and Wildlife Crimes Officer due to her connection with the Belvoir Hunt. L.A.R regularly get on the case of local hunts, councils and police and it's great to have their support.

Just time for a cracking benefit gig to round of the season before we were back out with maps in hands getting stuck into sett surveying for the start of this year's badger cull preparations.

Norfolk & Suffolk Hunt Sabs

Norfolk & Suffolk Sabs have been more active than ever this season (even managing to cover some weekday meets which we can't usually do) but it is fair to say that (for lots of reasons) this has probably been our toughest season yet.

We have fitted in one visit to the Dunston Harriers (who are not often sabbed, so they had a shock to the system when we arrived) and for the rest of the season we have split ourselves between the Waveney Harriers and the Easton Harriers.

We have had more sabs than ever before in the field and so have been able to save more lives than ever. However, on Saturday 13th February at an Easton Harrier meet in Sutton, Suffolk, we were not able to save one hare (pictured). That day we were lucky enough to have the SES and Cambs Sabs with us. The hare was hiding flat on the field and when he decided to make a dash for it, he unfortunately ran in the wrong direction. One quick thinking sab managed to scoop the hare from the jaws of the hounds but, very sadly, he was too late, and unbeknown to us at the time, the hare had already been bitten by the hounds and was bleeding to death internally. At least the hare died in the arms of someone who cared and was not torn apart by the hounds. Kills are never easy to deal with and for the new sabs present it was a very great shock to the system. Suffolk Police were out en masse and their response to the illegal hunting was to issue sabs with Section 35s. Since then, Suffolk Police have started using S35s routinely. Needless to say, we are now spending our free Saturdays submitting our complaints.

Thanks to HSA for helping us invest in a van that we hope is going to last us a good long time. We also had an excellent weekend at Lush selling T-shirts and charity pots and the money raised will help us with van costs for a few months.

This year we have covered fox hunts and hare hunts and seen a lot of examples of police blatantly siding with the hunters (blocking us, coordinating with the hunt, issuing dispersal orders). With Suffolk and Essex Hunt Sabs (SES) we have also helped police identify and arrest terrier men that had attacked our group (albeit letting them go home first to drop off their kit).

As the season wound down we headed further north than usual to Northamptonshire for the Woodland Pytchley Hunt. We had aggressive hunt stewards sucker punch female sabs from SES in front of the police with nothing being done. We also witnessed police blocking us from overtaking so that we couldn't follow the hunt. You'd almost think they were hunt supporters! We are organising a social event for the end of the season so we will let you know what we did in the next issue.

North East hunt sabs have remained active all throughout this season, reaching out to different areas, and joining up with other groups to sab difficult and rarely sabbed hunts in neighbouring areas with success. We especially have some big plans coming up for the next upcoming season and beforehand, with new campaigns and future fundraising events. As you probably all have heard, our vehicle was trashed by thugs from the Middleton Hunt in an unprovoked, cowardly attack towards the end of the season, making news headlines across the board.

Due to public donations we have successfully repaired the damage to the vehicle, so we would like to give out a big thank you to everyone who donated towards those repairs. As far as assaults on our members and criminal damage to our vehicle go, there are cases still pending so obviously we cannot comment on those just yet, but will keep you informed of those outcomes, if any.

We would also like to thank those groups and individuals that we have joined up with out in the field, that have shown us support and friendship to make our goals worthwhile. We will be continuing next season as a more determined group who won't be put off by threats and intimidation tactics deployed by certain hunts and individuals.

Our new website http://www.northeasthuntsabs.co.uk is now up and running with info on our group, pictures and where to contact us. Info on events etc. will be provided on the website or on our Facebook page. We are always looking for donations to keep our group out in the field; these are always most appreciated. You can donate here Riversongsab@hotmail.com or there is further info on our website.

Cheers.

Well, it's fair to say we had a pretty busy second half of the season – Illegal hunting and a fox killed, draconian police legislation and farcical arrests being some of the low lights.

Lincolnshire and Derbyshire police both used their favourite new toy the Section 35 dispersal order against sabs. This new law was introduced to deal with gangs acting antisocially in city centres but is now being misused by police forces to stifle lawful protest. Once we whacked in our complaints Lincs were happy to issue an apology and admitted the Section 35 was misused. The complaints are still going through the process with Derbyshire and we look forward to a similar conclusion.

The Meynell and South Staffs killed whilst we were out with them in early Feb. At the end of a busy but effective day sabs found the hounds with the fox they'd just killed. The body was retrieved and handed to Staffordshire police who are still investigating. Such blatant killing by the Meynell meant they became our focus for the remainder of the season and they had very few meets, either on Saturdays or mid-week, when sabs weren't present.

We also had time for visits to the Belvoir, Quorn, Cottesmore and Westerby Bassets as well as a pheasant shoot on the final day of their season (yes, yes pro-bloodsports numpties, we know it's legal but frankly we don't care. It's disgusting, cruel and immoral and that's good enough for us).

Summer again looks to be a busy one with a furtive eye being kept on our local mink packs as well as sett surveying for the badger cull and some much needed fundraising.

If you want to get involved you know the score. Details above.

Seasons end and South Coast Hunt Sabs put their feet up for a well-deserved rest following what has been for us one of the most violent seasons, as hunters take their frustrations out on us when they cannot kill animals. If that what's it takes, we'll roll with that. Teaming up with our usual muckers from Brighton and Croydon we came under assault with knives, staves and horses but at least we weren't attacked with a tractor like Croydon sabs.

Last Saturday of the season was a sad day as we were unable to stop the Old Surrey Burstow & West Kent hunt from killing, but for us the season had one more hurrah as arranged a mid-week hit on the Southdown & Eridge much to their utter frustration. This hunt is so far down the path of oblivion that it has to get its terrier man/ kennel man/ hired thug to ride as a whipper-in in a borrowed red coat! It's laughable as he clearly can barely stay on his horse and has less control over the hounds than someone with a dog whistle. So we took the opportunity, as they were clearly hunting, to take the hounds off for a jolly stroll throughout the day.

Saying the season is over is a bit of a lie as we have been out each Saturday tracking down the local mink hunters with about a 50% success rate which is not bad for such an elusive and small hunt. Still we just have to find them and watch them fume to put an end to their cruel activities.

We are always looking for new recruits so if you are around the area get in contact (see details above).

After our six week ninja training holiday at Camp Badger in Dorset, we returned to our everyday alter egos - blending back into the fabric of society once more. Of course, it wasn't long before our powers were called on again. Montage: repairing camo trousers, preparing equipment, getting psyched to punk music, intensive hummus diet.

Despite vehicular hiccups, we leapt back into our SabTank in October and resumed saving the world.
We ventured further north and south than usual this season, visiting two hunts in one week for a good chunk of winter; it provided us with an opportunity to work more closely with old friends and new. (That's more frequent than our personal hygiene routine!) We drew hounds away from animals at the Quorn hunt, puffing out our chests alongside Nottingham and Derby Sabs. In Bakewell, with West Yorkshire Sabs, we prevented the High Peak hunt from killing by covering scents.

Yearning for excitement, we decided to take on artillery and sab two shoots – one in South Yorkshire and one in Sheldon, Derbyshire. We moved them on both times, much to their chagrin. Not forgetting our old friends the York and Ainsty South, whose last meet of the season was thoroughly rained on by our presence. Much as Mother Nature was, again, a key member of the group, using her unique 'rain' skills to defeat the red-faced old countrymen at the Meynell and the Barlow hunts.

There were a few encounters; one with Shovey-Tractor-Man at the Sinnington Hunt and one with Look-at-My-Angry-Quad-Bike-Man at the Badsworth and Bramham Foxhounds. Luckily, our ninja reflexes kicked in and we avoided opening any of our cans of whoop-ass. They also provided bonding experiences (along with countless more positive events!) with our new sabs. One of them offered some words - see page XX

Trail hunting was once more seen to be wholly ridiculous. Expecting the hounds to ignore other scents is like expecting a financial advisor to ignore free lunches at the Ritz. At the High Peaks and the Holcombe Harriers we covered up new smells and drew the hounds away from other animals.

Soon we will be back down south working nights for our badgers. We welcome any support; whether that is volunteering to come out, financially or with calories! The upper hand is our hand, as they say. We prevented countless animal deaths this season, we welcomed a range of new recruits, and hey – the Airedale Beagles saw us watching their kennels and cancelled their meet. Nice one!

Now, we need to get off and finally wash those balaclavas...

During the second half of the season we continued to work closely with Bristol Hunt Sabs, keeping up the pressure on the Ross Harriers.

By January they were so paranoid about security (because we kept showing up) they had abandoned their published meet card. Hunters had to phone the master on a Friday night to find out where they were hunting the next day. They lost supporters and access to hunting country. Unfortunately their frustrations spilled out into violence on more than one occasion with masked supporters smashing the rear window of our Land rover in March.

Huntsman Simon Dunn has resigned blaming pressure from 'antis'. Now we hear Carmarthenshire huntsman Owain Fisher will be joining the Ross Harriers next season. Well, well, well – we'll be sure to give him a very warm welcome!

We also managed to fit in visits to Leadon Vale Bassets, Carmarthenshire, Curre and Llangibby, RAC Beagles and the Vale of Clettwr.

Since the end of the season we've turned our attention to the badger cull once again, sett surveying in the new zones; it is good work, the woods are beautiful just now and we see some wonderful wildlife. If you fancy joining us please get in touch, we're always glad to hear from you.

At the time of writing we've had a break from hunts now for almost a month, having sabbed our last hunt meet in early April, bringing our days in the field this last season just short of 100 once again. We've been focusing more on raising awareness and funds at various events and planning new skill shares and workshops on wildlife, tactics and the law for the wider 'sab community' as well as having more time to work on our website!

As usual we began the season fighting the Gloucestershire cull, then switching focus back to the hunts in October. This season, however, we've looked a lot more at sett-blocking and badger persecution by hunts using the huge bank of knowledge we have from the culls and have had some positive outcomes.

We were treated to a good day out at a joint meet in Cornwall towards the end of the season when the Cury invited our local Heythrop Hunters down for the day. As always it's been great to work with friends, old and new. And to have such fantastic supporters who help us carry on getting out there. Keep an eye on our site for more news and details and check out our videos for a visual round-up of our activities.

It hasn't always been positive and we've also had sad news regarding good friends and fellow activists passing away this year, but with new initiatives and ideas to keep us motivated, we'll keep seeing you in the fields, the streets, the fairs and online!

Over the summer we will be sett surveying in one of the potential new badger cull zones. Like last summer we will be going around the towns and villages in the Atherstone Hunt's area doing stalls so local people can meet us and find out what we are all about and what their local hunt get up to. We'll also be starting a pub campaign, handing leaflets out and doing demos outside the pubs that hosted the Atherstone hunt last season. We're also putting all the footage from the season together to make a short documentary about the Atherstone and hunting which we will show and distribute around the hunts local area.

Also, an ongoing court case has now come its conclusion in our favour:

Two years ago West Midlands Hunt Sabs along with other sab groups visited the Quorn. Leicestershire Police were also in attendance including plain clothes special branch officers. They immediately started abusing their powers in an attempt to stifle the right to protest, which included unlawfully stopping and searching people under Section 60 of the Criminal Justice and Public Order Act.

One sab refused to be searched and was then arrested for obstructing a police officer. The case went to trial where it was thrown out of court by the judge as Section 60 powers are meant to be used when it is feared there may be incidents of serious violence; they are not meant to be used on people peacefully disrupting a hunt.

We have emails that show the CPS wanted to discontinue the prosecution and that Leicestershire Police leant on the CPS to continue so as to avoid being sued. They were successfully sued anyway and the compensation from Leicestershire police will go towards new camcorders to film the police and illegal hunting, citronella and vehicle running costs.

The end of summer into October saw us in the cull zone in our now familiar part of Gloucestershire. Always an endurance test, and sleep being a faraway dream! With the combination of cull zones expanding and culls rolling out, we have to dig in. But the more we dig in, the more we prove the cull to be unworkable and that to continue the slaughter of our wildlife is financially unviable for them!

As will be familiar with most (all?) sab groups, our season was largely blighted by van woes. Not to be deterred, however, a few sabs have gone in cars and on foot and kept tabs on some of the local hunts to ensure they don't get up to too much as well as to gather information for when we able to revisit in full sab mode.

When our van was back in action we made several visits with Sheffield Saboteurs to try and find the needle in hilly haystack that is the High Peak Harriers. After a few successful weeks of kennel watching and strategically placing vehicles to catch them, they began blocking sab vehicles in, and their favourite trick of sending out a decoy hound van with only a few of the pack in... You're gonna have to do better than that!

After a few successful trips north to the Sinnington and the Derwent Hunts (the latter hadn't been sabbed in 15 years; let's get them on their toes!), we were with old haunts Badsworth & Bramham Moor and York & Ainsty South for their end of season meets. Both saw sabs narrowly avoiding more serious injury from angry men in tractors, quad bikes and Land Rovers' repeatedly attempting to run over and generally try and make us 'get off their land' and 'get back to our bloody towns'. Some of these incidents have resulted in ongoing legal cases against them, and none have deterred us!

HOW YOU CAN HELP END BLOODSPORTS

Organisations such as the Countryside Alliance are backed by some of the richest people in Britain, and can spend millions on advertising and paid campaigners. Their wealth and power gives them a stranglehold over most of the media and some of the most influential people in government.

The Hunt Saboteurs Association, in comparison, runs solely on funds from you, the public, who keep the organisation afloat with donations and membership. It depends on the small band of volunteers who give over their spare time to keep the HSA running smoothly, produce leaflets and salesgoods, staff stalls, manage websites/social media and deal with the press. And most importantly of all it depends on the dedication of the men and women who, week in, week out, defy the hunts on their own turf, and in the face of increasing violence and police powers, still manage to save the lives of thousands of hunted animals every year.

There are several ways you can help the HSA.

- Get in touch with your local sab group (details from the office) and either go sabbing yourself or help in other ways such as fundraising, mechanics or donating financially.
- If you are not already a member of the HSA, please join now by using the form below - or join online at www.huntsabs.org.uk/index.php/get-involved/join-the-hsa
- If you are already a HSA member then please photocopy the form and pass it on to someone else you think may like to join us.
- Ask the office for back copies of HOWL to leave in places where they can be read by members of the public (ie. doctors waiting rooms). If you are still at school or college why not leave a copy in the library reference section?
- Support us by buying HSA T-shirts and other merchandise - see enclosed salesgoods catalogue or visit www.huntsabs.org.uk/index.php/merchandise
- Let the hunters know what you think! Like us on Facebook, follow us on Twitter, contact your local newspaper's letters page and your MP to let them know your views on Government plans either regarding hunting or hunt saboteurs.

HELP SAVE A LIFE AFTER YOUR DEATH

REMEMBER THE HUNT SABOTEURS ASSOCIATION IN YOUR WILL

You may think that it is not worth your while making a Will but you may be surprised at how much you are worth, especially if you own your own home. Most people in this country die without making a Will and that means that the government gets more than their fair share. Making a Will need not be complicated or time consuming and it could save your loved ones a lot of unnecessary heartache. If you do not have a Will when you die there is no guarantee that those closest to you will benefit from your wealth and property. In addition, many people like to know that the organisations they support whilst alive will continue to benefit after their death.

The Hunt Saboteurs Association relies entirely on the generosity of its membership to function. As the organisation strives to function on minimal running costs more of the money coming in can be put to good use where it counts most – in the hunting field. Leaving a gift to the H.S.A. in your Will helps to ensure that the good work carried out by active hunt saboteurs can continue. With a ban now in place, and so many hunts blatantly flouting it, the role of sabs has never been more important, so your gift will still be put to good use – the HSA will continue until no sentient creatures are abused in the name of sport.

A Will is a legally binding document and needs to be prepared properly. The services of a solicitor should be employed. A solicitor is the only person who can give professionally qualified advice. Have a look in Yellow Pages (under 'Solicitors') or call the Law Society on 020 7242 1222. If you already have a Will you can include a gift to the H.S.A. by adding an amendment (known as a 'codicil') – you will need to consult your solicitor about this.

If you are able to remember the H.S.A. in your Will it would help if you could let us know.

I plan to / have already prepared a Will and have remembered the Hunt Saboteurs Association as follows (please tick as appropriate):

☐ Residual Legacy - a percentage of my estate once my family and friends have been provided for.

☐ Pecuniary Legacy - a cash gift of £.....

☐ Specific Gift - an individual item of value e.g. jewellery.
