"We never give in and we always win."

As BOC learn the lesson we move on to Huntingdon's animal importers. Time to close the gateways to hell.

Marches

Stop Huntingdon Animal Cruc

Mobilisation of the Masses

Part I Terminal 2 Heathrow airport

Today the police tried to play catch up. A vanload of coppers pulled into the meeting point just as our last vehicle was leaving. They had earlier stopped a car with a banner saying 'Heathrow import animals for torture'! Despite this the police still couldn't work out where the demo was going to be.

So when 30 of us strode into terminal 2 and held a very very noisy demo complete with 4 metre banner, there were no security or police in sight. We had a completely free rein, with airhorns blasting and everyone shouting about Heathrow's dirty secrets. Leaflets were strewn all over the terminal.

No one challenged us, in fact the staff behind the airline desks were very supportive, as were most of the passengers. There were lots of press around, apparently Posh and Becks were due to fly in or out.

Eventually security arrived and tried to make up for lost time with the usual macho display.

As we made our way back to our vehicles the police came puffing through the multi-storey car park, blocked the exit and searched all the cars. Along came coppers from Thames Valley (who must have been sad and lonely in Oxford) to follow us for the rest of the day, so we regrouped and took them to a lively demo at GlaxoSmith-Kline.

Great day. Great teamwork.

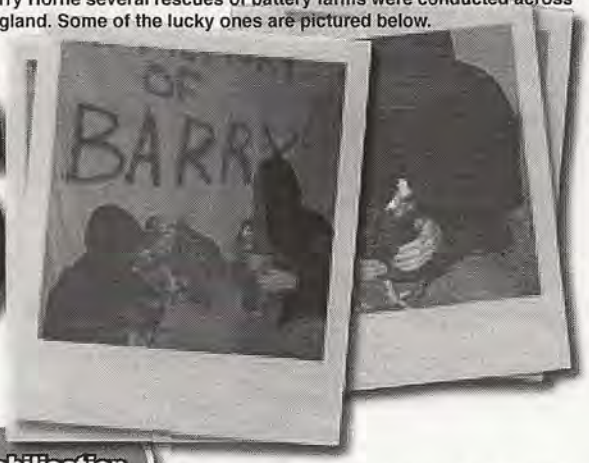

Part 2 Terminal 3 Heathrow airport

UK Airports Targetted for Importing Animals for Torture in British Labs!

Activists from all over the country gathered to demonstrate at Terminals 2 & 3 London Heathrow and Manchester Airport in a co-ordinated day of action against the authorities that allow the importation of animals for onward transportation to HLS, Oxford University, Covance and other UK labs! At the Departures barrier around 70 activists in total unfurled their banners and switched on their megaphones - lots of them! With about 5 megaphones per group per terminal BAA were shamed for importing animals for torture. Even with all the security you would hope to expect in our airports in this era of terrorism the demos continued for much longer than we had anticipated. As the inept security tried to remove our banners and megaphones activists leafleted the airports to the cheer and support of passengers and staff alike! Eventually the security gave up their task to the Police, who after putting their guns down (nothing will scare us!) escorted the groups from the terminals - who continued to demonstrate and leaflet! We continued our day with a mobile demo - racing from location to location until we arrived finally at Glaxo HQ - on mass! Here we were met by a large police presence, who looked very christmassy with so many blue lights and bright yellow jackets.The achievement made to today by all the activists working as a complete team to acheive our aims was brilliant. Many of us spent hours leading the Police away from Heathrow and Manchester, many of us spent hours waiting and sat in cars before the strike, many of us spent our hard earned money on petrol and tickets, but ALL of us worked together to achieve this truly fantastic feat in the name of ending live imports to the UK through our airports. United we stand - singularly they WILL fall!

& Mobiles LOUDER than HELL

Over the weekend of Nov 5th to mark the anniversary of the death of Barry Horne several rescues of battery farms were conducted across England. Some of the lucky ones are pictured below.

Part 3 Manchester airport

Activists from the North of England made their way to Manchester airport to inform as many employees and customers as possible about Manchester airport's involvement in the cruel and barbaric import and export trade of live animals for vivisection. Manchester Airport imports dogs and birds for HLS and exports guinea pigs for the notorious Newchurch Farm. These guinea pigs are sent to other countries to be killed in cosmetics and product testing experiments. Activists were able to give thousands of leaflets to customers, employees, flight attendants and even pilots! All of these people were shocked and amazed that Manchester was dealing in such a bloody trade. They were disgusted to hear that some of the everyday airlines that were used for holiday destinations also carried animals. We then moved outside the main doors to leaflet customers, and then went on to the multi-story car parks.Outside banners were hung from several points around the airport.

These banners could clearly be seen from the busy roundabouts and passing motorists hooted their approval as they were being put in place. Once the job was done at the airport, we made our way to Manchester's freight terminal just a couple of miles down the road. This is the area where hundreds of terrified animals are taken before being sent on to their fate in laboratories around England or exported to labs all over the world. This massive industrial estate is the hub of the import and export trade at Manchester airport. All the businesses there were made fully aware of the new campaign against Manchester airport, and one employer has already given us some promising information. The campaigns against Manchester Airport and Heathrow Airport that will be launched in the New Year by a coalition of activists and grass roots campaigns are campaigns we as a movement are going to win!

Lessons from Mobilisation of the Masses

On Saturday we hit Heathrow airport terminals 2 and 3 and Manchester airport too! This is the first time this has been done by ANYONE! We had a few logistical problems however - ironically as this demo had more planning than any other we have ever done! If you are reading this and are one of the people who spent a lot of time and effort getting to the demo without being able to join in at Heathrow then we are really, really sorry. Please feel free to call the office and air your grievances! Please do not be disillusioned. At the end of the day the WHOLE TEAM that includes you managed to breach security at 3 international terminals, we carried out a mobile demo of couriers in and around Heathrow, we got into the offices of DHL, we had a demo against GLAXO and we leafletted Oxford.

Next time we will start ringing mobiles earlier. We started at 11am last time and that was far too late. The reason for that was that if we rang too early the police would get wind of our plans and scupper them. We will also have a lot more people manning the phones to cope with the sheer numbers. Next time we will have a march and a mobile demo so you can choose which you prefer. A march will mean a march too!

We would like to thank all those who helped make it happen and also all those who for one reason or another drove a long way and didn't get to see any action but still managed to stay really cheerful and positive. I still believe that a pre planned surprise demo is always better than one where people stand about hemmed in by the police and go home frustrated. The price we pay for trying new ideas and pushing the boundaries is that we experience teething problems and inevitably upset some people. Stick with it and be ready to join in on the next one. Remember we are all making history. In future if you see a march advertised then that's what it will be and if you want to do mobile demos then let us know and we can put you on the mobile list. This way the choice is yours.

Some of the companies who have pulled out of Huntingdon since the last newsletter.

BOC ditch Huntingdon
Amazing news
After an intensive campaign with over 100 demos taking place Huntingdon s gas supplier BOC have pulled out.

They were quoted in the FT as saying that supplying Huntingdon had been financially viable until SHAC became involved. Apparently the cost of security was too much.

Disgusting LS Services imported birds into HLS for vivisection. Unfortunately details of their involvement in animal abuse were leaked to a number of animal rights campaigns nationwide by an HLS worker. They have now made a statement. Funny how all these money-grabbers are happy to trade in animal life until they get caught out. This a company we will definitely be keeping a close eye on.

New prisoner Sarah Gisborne

Sarah is on remand in HMP charged with several counts of criminal damage connected to Huntingdon Life Sciences and their associates.

You can judge a movement by the way it treats its prisoners so support her. Make sure you send Sarah a Christmas card and write to her regularly. It's only when you have been there you realise just how much letters mean.

Sarah can also receive books but not magazines. She can receive stationary including stamps, writing paper and envelopes but not pens. Never forget that she is in prison with nothing to gain for herself. She is there for the animals. Lastly remember that all prison mail is read so don't put anything incriminating in your letters.

With 90 suppliers gon so the Countdow

Please contact all the suppliers on these pages and make them aware of exactly what sort of company HLS is. Remember HLS do not go around advertising their record of abuse and fraud so it is up to you to politely phone, email and fax these companies and put the record straight for the animals.With 90 suppliers gone so far this year there are only 10 to go til the 100 mark!

Rhani s story and why you should be Vegan

The true story of a calf rescued from the jaws of death. Rhani was a baby calf just 8 days old. Workers were kicking and beating her and loudly cursing her as they hauled her onto the slaughterer's lorry at the Sevenoaks Market in Kent. She was to be slaughtered the next day. Marion Eastwood stood watching. After the workers got Rhani into the truck and walked away, Marion went over to it. Rhani was lying there with her eyes squeezed shut as if to shut out the horror of what was happening to her.

Even though just the week before, Marion had bought another 8-day-old calf named Rosie, she couldn't bear to walk away from the baby animal lying in the truck with her eyes shut. She asked the slaughterer how much he would charge for Rhani. He said £13.50, which she paid him. The little calf was so terrified that she kept her eyes shut all through being removed from the slaughterer's truck and loaded into the back of Marion's car. Marion knew she could be breaking all sorts of regulations by transporting Rhani in her car, but she was desperate to get the little animal away as soon as possible. Rhani was in shock and didn't move a muscle.

When Marion got to her home, Friend Animal Sanctuary, the traumatised baby calf, eyes still tightly shut, had to be carried all the way up to the paddock. There, Rosie stood waiting. Rosie mooed to Rhani, and with that, Rhani opened her eyes. She saw Rosie and the paddock and an orchard and acres of land. She struggled to her feet and wobbled straight over to Rosie. They licked each other and then walked off together.

At first, Rhani would not suckle a bottle, and she became weak. But after much coaxing and stroking of Rhani's fur, Marion finally got her to take the bottle. She bottle-fed both Rhani and Rosie for several months, and they grew bigger and stronger. Rhani was also put on a course of homoeopathy to help her through the shock of her ordeal.

Today, Rhani is friends with all the sheep, goats, chickens and pigs at the sanctuary. She is very sweet and often can be found trying to get into Marion's house, putting her head inside the window to be near her rescuer and sometimes to steal bananas, which she loves. Rhani is very inquisitive and has gotten into trouble several times when she has broken into the neighbour's vegetable patch, but no one gets mad at her, because she's so sweet and gentle. A very sociable cow who loves to be included, Rhani frequently comes over to stand behind volunteers at the sanctuary as they work. She is very nosy and afraid of nothing.

Almost any time someone builds a fire, Rhani and Rosie can be found next to it, enjoying its warmth. She also likes vehicles - perhaps she remembers that being put into a car saved her life. If you leave a car door open, she tries to get in, even though she's much too big. Once, she managed to get her front end into Marion's car, and Marion thought she was going to have to call the fire brigade to get her out. Luckily, Rhani backed out when she was good and ready to.

Rhani is a beautiful cow now and so gentle and friendly that everyone at Friend Animal Sanctuary loves cuddling up to her.
